写作第一节题:14.5分

Different Choices During the Break

During the break, there are two different choices for my classmates to pick. Some students continue studying, while other students enjoy chatting with friends.

In my opinion, both of the choices have their own benefits. As for the ones who study in the rest, they can review the lessons so that they can master the knowledge better. What's more, they can also preview the following class, which makes them understand the $ class easily. When it comes to the other students, not only do they build better friendship with others, but they also relieve the pressure from the previous class, which provides them an energetic mind.

All in all, the two choices both have positive effects on us. What you choose depends on your personal habit and preference.

写作第一节题:14.5分

Different Choices During the Break

As a senior high school student, I have found two different choices during the break in my class. Some of my classmates continue to bury themselves into books for studying, while others prefer to chat with each other for fun.

From my point for view, neither studying nor chatting is better. Breaks between classes serve as a balance between studying and relaxation. In other words, we'd better relax and do something meaningful rather than just keeping studying or chatting for fun. It's a great choice for us to engage in some helpful activities such as picking up the rubbish around the classroom or helping classmates with difficult questi

In conclusion, it is our proper choices that make us get better during the break. Using the break wisely, and we will have a colorful school life.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

Hi! I'm Li Hua. Let me tell you something about break activities.

Recently, I find a true thing during the break. Some students want to review last class's contents.

Or they can chanllenge themselves to finish ~~an~~ a hard question. Other students often talk about interesting stories, toys and sweet.

In my opinion, I think their activities are nice. Relax is our cecret to reduce school's pressures. Of course, study during the break is also fantastic.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

Hi! I'm LiHua. I'm more than delighted to share my finding during the break.

I recently found that my classmates had different choices during the break. Some people considered break time as lesson time and kept studying. The other part of them chatted with others about what happened nearly.

I think different choices presented different attitudes to the break. Those people who kept studying had a heart that wanted to be better. And chatting with others is a good way to relax ourselves. None of them was wrong.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

As we officially become a senior high school student and spend more time with our classmates, I find something interesting in our class —— Some of the students would keep their head low and study really hard rather than take a break, while the other classmates prefer to have a chat with others.

As for me, I think whether we choose learning or resting totally depends on our personal situation. If we want to learn more knowledge, then we can study a little more. And we completely should have a rest when we are tired. All in all, I think we need to take both studying and resting wisely.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

I'm delighted to have a comment on this interesting topic. My thoughts are as follow. On the one hand, some students choose to use break time to study, stunning their classmates and teachers. As for them, the knowledge is more valuable than diomands shining brightly. How positive their attitude is!

On the other hand, some students are more willing to strenghthen their bonds with friends through chatting, which equips them to balance study and keeping mental healthy while the black clouds named stress hang over them.

From my point of view, not only should we gain the nurtrition of knowledge, but also we ought to develop a positive lifestyle. To draw a conclusion, it is what we need that our activities during break time are supposed to adapt to.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

Hello, everyone. I'm Li Hua, a senior high school student. It is my great honor to share the different choices between my classmates with you.

When it comes to choices between students after class. I find that some of them make a determination to stick to learning, the other students enjoy chatting with others. From my perspective, it is normal to have a rest after class, but we can't be too nervous or over-relaxed. As the proverb says, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

It is recreation that makes our life colorful, and we ought to control ourselves well. I sincerely hope this letter can be noticed by more students. Thanks for reading!

写作第一节题:14分

第一节（满分14分）

Different Choices During the Break

Hello, I'm Li Hua. Resently, I find that my classmates have two different choices during the break. Some students still study quietly, with only the sound of pens moving across paper, while others like to chat with their friends.

请在答题卡相应区域作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

As far as I'm concerned, we are supposed to keep a balance between learning and recreation. It's a good idea to review the notebook and do our homework. However, suitable break also matters a lot.

In a word, I believe that we can become better people in the future if we can plan the time to study and relax well.

写作第一节题:14分

Different Choices During the Break

Hello, everyone! I'm Li Hua. Nowadays, I noticed different choices during the break in my classroom. Some classmates still stuck to learning, while the others chatted with each other. This difference sparks heated debate, and I feel necessary to share my opinions.

First and foremost, we shold realize both choices are OK, for the reason that their needs are different. What matters is to do proper things at a proper time, and enable our time to become organised. Furthermore, the chatting ones're expected to make noises, which may disturb others. Only by doing so can we enjoy a quiet and effective break.

What's your opinion? Please share it with us.

写作第一节题:13.5分

Different Choices During the Break

Nowadays, our classmates have two different choices during breaks. Some bury themselves in study, reviewing lessons and fishing exercises. ~~Hower~~ However, other choose to relax. They chat with friends or ~~th~~take a short walk to stretch their bodies.

As far as I'm concerned, a break is meant for rest. Proper relaxation helps us refresh our mind and improves study ~~efficienty~~ efficiency. Balancing study and rest is a wise choice for every student.

写作第二节题:24分

第二节（满分 25 分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. He buried himself in reading the book every evening after school. The author's story touched him deeply, reminding him that frustration was never the end. Rather than escaping tough math exercises, he plucked up courage to tackle them. When ever puzzles confused him, he sought advice from Ms. Smith, who guided him to explore alternative thinking methods. Step by step, his fear of numbers faded away, and he gradually gained pleasure in exploring mathematical logic.

Two months later, it was time for another test. Calmly, Fahim focused his ~~mand~~ mind and worked through each question cautiously. When grades were announced, he earned seven out of ten. Overjoyed, he hurried to Ms. Smith's office to share his delight. The teacher praised his efforts, saying small gains would finally add up. At that moment, Fahim understood that steady devotion could defeat any difficulty stading in his way.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:23.5分

第二节（满分25分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. His heart was full of enegy again, he desided to try ohis best to solve the problems. Opening this book, he was deeply attracted on this interesting book. In this book, the author made the difficult numbers become simple and easy. The author's way to solve math problems was special. And Fahim could understand the way easily. He reade this book everyday. Gradually, He found those confusing symbols in his eye all became interesting. He got interested in math and falled in love with this subject. He can obviously felt that his math grade is getting well.

Two months later, it was time for another test. During the test, He didn't feel akward at all. In his eyes, the challenging problems were simple and familiar. He used a new and special ways to solve problems. After the text, he was confident and relaxed. When the grades came out, there were no mistakes on his test paper, Fahim's heart was filled with happiness and excitement. He ran into the teacher office. Mr. Smith was still wait for him, She looked him with a big smile, and her eyes were also full of tears. She felt very proud of Fahim. And Fahim finally realized that if we could find a proper way, then any problems will be quickly and easily solved.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:23分

第二节（满分25分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. He read it with tension at first, but soon he determined to give it a shot, reading it carefully. Astonishingly, after reading a few pages, Fahim found it wasn't too difficult. Fahim slowly immersed in this book and he now believes math can be as interesting as art or English. In the following days, Fahim took the book wherever he went, reading it in any possible time. After reading it, he had gained a profounder insight of number and prepared for anothe test with newfound confidence and reignited determination.

Two months later, it was time for another test. ~~With~~ Palms sweating and heart pounding like a galloping horse, Fahim's tension came back. Ms. Smith's encouraging words echoing in his mind, he thought of the book, then plucked up his courage to ~~face the test~~ gather his total concentration on the paper and exert his utmost endeavor to write down every answer. Hardly had the test finished when Fahim strode out of the classroom, catching sight of Ms. Smith wearing a radiant smile. "How was that?" she asked. Immersed in rapture, Fahim let out a scream. "I made it! Never in my wildest dream had I imagined that I could accomplish a math test independently!" Amber-like sunshine filtering into their hearts, only then did it dawn on Fahim that love, persistence and confidence navigated us to embrace a glorious future with a glimmer of hope welling up inside ~~their~~ our hearts.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:23分

第二节（满分 25 分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. He carefully opened the book with a sense of curiousity, thinking this book perhaps can change his hard situation. Soon some beautiful paintings suddenly caught up his eyes. He read the book with his interests. The words in the book goined his confidence and introduced some useful ways to learn math. The story of the writer deeply touched Fahim. As time passed, he found math can be as interesting as other subjects. Fahim took out his crumpled paper. With an eager heart, he tried hard to solve each question. Encouraged by the book, he studied math harder.

Two months later, it was time for another test. To his surprise, those numbers and graph lines once scary became much easier than he thought. Soon, confidence and satisfaction replaced the nervous. Fahim quickly finished the paper. After a few days, Fahim got an exellent grades. During the break, he walked to the teacher's office and gave the book back to Ms. Smith. Fahim took a deep breath, a wave of happiness flooded over him. He looked at his tearcher greatfully and begin "Thank you so much, I learnt a lot from this book. It gave me not only ways to learn math but also courage to face problems. I understand that nothing is impossible with a willing heart.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:23分

第二节（满分25分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. He carefully opened the book and started to read with a curious heart. Magically, this book ~~didn't~~ wasn't boring like a textbook, instead it was interesting with plenty of pictures and stories, opening a new world to Fahim. The knowledge was vivid and he gradually lost himself in it even forgot to eat. After that, he thought maths in a different way and soon fall in love with maths. He made every effort to learn maths and became more active in the class. He changed a lot and Ms. Smith praised him too because of his passion.

Two months later, it was time for another test. Fahim took this test seriouly and make good preparations for it. The book inspired him greatly, making him study more efficiently. So challenging and difficult as the test was, he still got ~~a~~ good grades and performed well, which amazed his classmates. The ~~time~~ moment he ~~know~~ knew his grades, his face lifted up and felt like over the moon. Ms. Smith claped for him and encourayed him to ~~moving~~ move foward and to explore the joy of math. The book turly helped him a lot and made him realized that nothing ~~was~~ is impossible if we ~~for~~ find a proper way to achieve it.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:22.5分

Li Hua

第二节（满分 25 分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. He made up his mind to spare no effort to learn math well. The process of learning math well was difficult and challenging. Fahim wanted to give up for so many times, but each time he reminded of Ms. Smith's encouragement, the energy from the bottom of heart spread across the whole body. At night, the light of Fahim's room cut through the darkness. He used every single breaks to study by reading the book carefully and asking Ms. Smith for help. Gradually, The mistakes once troubled Fahim had disappeared.

Two months later, it was time for another test. With butterflies in his stomach, Fahim got his paper —— full marks! A wave of joy swept over him, words failing to convey his inner feelings. Ms. Smith said, "Congratulations!" Fahim cast a grateful glance at her, a bright smile spreading across his face. What mattered most was not the result itself, but the process Fahim had experienced and the realizations he had got. From that moment on, an important realization came over Fahim —— There's nothing impossible if you put yourself into hard work. "Impossible" means "I'm possible!"

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:22.5分

第二节（满分 25 分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. Feeling excited, Fahim took out the book, eager to find the way, which could make him follow the math. Reading the book carefully, he found that he had the same problem with the author. By reading the book, he realized that it is of great importance to develop the interests in math. Deciding to change and improve himself, he started to watch the videos about math. By watching these interesting videos, he found that math has its own beauty. After that, he become more and more interested in the math.

Two months later, it was time for another test. Feeling nervous, he couldnt help shaking his legs. At the moment, his head teacher came and told him "Only you calm down, can you get a high scores" Doing a deep breath, Fahim felt calm. After he got the math paper, he felt there was a big difference between now and before. He no longer hated these numbers and graph lines. It's made him more confidient in sucessed in finishing the paper well. Feeling more comfortable, he soon finish the paper. In his expectations, he got a high score that he could never imagine before.

Fahim's stories encourage us to find the way to follow the things well.

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效

写作第二节题:22.5分

第二节（满分 25 分）

Taking the book home, Fahim felt a little hope rise in his heart. Starting to read it, Fahim underline the key words carefully. It was he was uneasy that when he saw many numbers. Soon, joy and surprise took the place of fear. His eyes full of passion, Fahim found numbers could be interesting and funny, reading the book restlessly. On a sunny day, flowers smiling and grass waving. Fahim found Ms. Smith to share his ideas about math and numbers. "It's your show time. Fahim, try to correct the mistakes on that test paper and prepare for the next test, I believe you!", she said. Fahim nodded firmly.

Two months later, it was time for another test. Thrilled but nervous, Fahim still had a bad emotion. An inner voice said, "You can do it, just try it!" Looking at the numbers, he recalled those in the book. At the thought of art with numbers, confident and passionate, Fahim sticked to finishing whole test paper without fear. Two days later, Fahim was called to the teacher's office again. Much to his surprise, Ms. Smith told him that he became the fifth in class. Her soft voice and poweful words echoed in Fahim's ears. Fahim knew that he did it! "Sometimes, a creative way that I can follow is the best, only by being creative and diligent can we succeed!"

请在各题目的答题区域内作答，超出答题区域的答案无效